Daniel E. Boss, LPF, Rejoins Sewall as GIS Project Manager

(Old Town, Maine—4 May 1999) James W. Sewall Company announces that Daniel E. Boss, LPF, has recently rejoined the firm as GIS Project Manager in Forestry and Natural Resources Consulting Services. A Licensed Professional Forester with an M.S. in Forestry from the University of Maine, Mr. Boss brings 20 years' experience in the GIS field. During a 19-year tenure at Great Northern Paper, Inc., he developed corporate information systems using key technologies, including GIS, relational database systems, statistical analysis, and planning models. As Woodlands Technical Services Coordinator (Bowater), he directed the development and implementation of an enterprise GIS to manage over 2 million acres of forestland, supervising all aspects of data collection and geographic information analysis. As Senior Forestry Analyst (Georgia Pacific), he supervised inhouse development of an Intergraph GIS database for 800,000 acres of forest. As Map-Based Information Supervisor (Great Northern Nekoosa), he designed and programmed a raster-based cartographic modeling system. He also supervised forest inventory information processing at Sewall for 6 years as Forester/Biometrician. Mr. Boss has software expertise in ARC/INFO, Visual Basic, and Intergraph platforms. In addition, he has an M.A. in Experimental Psychology from Dalhousie University, Halifax, and a B.A. in Psychology from the University of Western Australia.

At Sewall Mr. Boss will assume a strategic role in GIS design and development to improve client enterprise efficiencies and profitability. He strengthens a team of forestry consultants who perform a broad range of services, including forestry appraisal, forest economics, timberland inventory, forest management planning, forest resource studies, and data warehousing. A mapping firm with clients worldwide, Sewall also offers services in aerial photography; surveying/GPS; photogrammetric, cadastral, and forest mapping; engineering; and utilities AM/FM/GIS development.
